Hi Gavin,

Thank you for following up and this is a comprehensive update to summarize discussions at various levels since the original email was received.

Materials that demonstrate the Proponents consultation and work with communities should be submitted with the application. When new material is received during an active comment period, NIRB staff review the submission to see if additional time is required for parties to review the new material. In this case, we would not receive these as second-hand comments via the Proponent and when reviewed, found that the content was already covered in parties' direct comments to the NIRB.

As you've further requested these and additional letters to be posted on the NIRB's public registry, we will be posting them in the general correspondence folder for the Grays Bay Review and expect them to be incorporated into the Impact Statement as it relates to WKC's consultation with communities.
