Please describe the concerns indicated above:

Transport Canada reviewed the February 16, 2022, project application form available on the Nunavut Impact Review Board's registry page for the project. During this review, Transport Canada did not note any project activities taking place in, on, over, under, through or across any navigable water that may require approval under the Canadian Navigable Waters Act. Flight operations and the transport of fuels must be done in compliance with the Canadian Aviation Regulations and Transportation of Dangerous Goods Act and Regulations, respectively. Nothing in the project application form indicates that standard operating procedures for these activities will not be followed.

Given the above, Transport Canada does not have concerns about the proposed project.

Do you have any suggestions or recommendations for this application?

None.

Do you support the project proposal? Yes ☐ No ☐ Any additional comments?

Transport Canada has no position on whether NIRB should approve this project.
