

About Somerset Minerals

Somerset Minerals is a junior exploration company committed to responsibly discovering new sources of copper to support the global shift toward clean energy.

We work with respect for the land and in close partnership with local communities to ensure our activities create meaningful, long-term benefits—such as local employment, training, and business opportunities.

By aligning our work with traditional knowledge, we aim to minimise environmental impact and uphold the region’s cultural and ecological values. Our team values honesty, transparency, and open communication, and we look forward to building a strong and positive relationship with the Kugluktuk community.

2025 Exploration Activities

Somerset Minerals is preparing to begin its first exploration program at the Coppermine Project, approximately 70 km south of Kugluktuk.

Our 2025 field program will be based out of Kugluktuk and include small-scale drilling, rock sampling, and geophysical surveys. Crews will fly to the site each day and return to the community, helping to support local accommodation and services.

The program will begin in spring with low-impact survey work, pause respectfully during the caribou calving season, and resume with drilling from July through to September. If results are positive, we hope to continue exploration in future seasons, creating more local employment and business opportunities in Kugluktuk.

We are committed to doing things the right way:

- ✔ Minimising environmental impact and avoiding sensitive areas
- ✔ Using water responsibly, recycling wherever possible
- ✔ Respecting wildlife, including careful planning around caribou and wildlife activity
- ✔ Protecting cultural heritage and working in partnership with the community

We believe this project can bring real, long-term value to the community through training, jobs, and local business involvement.

We look forward to building strong relationships and sharing our journey every step of the way.

Somerset Minerals is pleased to be visiting Kugluktuk ahead of our upcoming 2025 exploration program, including drilling planned to commence in July 2025 at our Coppermine Project.

We invite all members of the community to drop in, say hello, and learn more about:

- Our planned exploration activities
- Employment and collaboration opportunities
- How we are working to respect and protect the local environment, wildlife, and culture
