CLADE RAILTON, President of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 793, has written to the Prime Minister of Canada, Justin Trudeau, regarding the proposed changes to the Canadian Labour Code. In his letter, Railton expresses concern over the potential impact of these changes on workers' rights and safety. He emphasizes the importance of maintaining strong labour protections and ensuring that workers have a voice in their workplace. The letter also highlights the role of unions in advancing worker welfare and protecting the interests of working people.

LIONEL RAILTON

Local 793 President

55,000 members across Canada and in Nunavut, Local 793 represents approximately 30% of the membership. 85% of our members are Local 793 members. We are growing stronger together. Local 793 has been involved in the negotiations for over 10 years. We have made significant progress in recent years, particularly in the areas of safety and health at work, wage increases, and working conditions. The Local 793 negotiators have been instrumental in securing a fair and equitable contract for all members.

Local 793 President, Lionel Railton, stated:

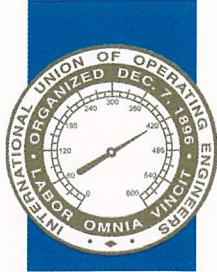

"Local 793 is proud to represent the members of the International Union of Operating Engineers. Our members are dedicated professionals who provide essential services to the community. We are committed to ensuring that they receive fair wages and benefits, and that they work in safe and healthy environments. We are looking forward to continuing our negotiations with the employer and reaching a fair and mutually beneficial agreement."
