Hi Cassel,

We submitted the on-line project proposal (please see confirmation email below). Hoping that we've managed to include the information the NIRB requires for the evaluation.

The most pressing element is the Greenlandic R/V Sanna work scheduled for early August, 2021. We've detailed this in the application, but the only tasks are the deployment of two small science moorings (diagrams in the cruise plan that was submitted with the package), which will require no more than 12 hours total (and likely less) with R/V Sanna in Nunavut waters. I fully realize that email problems on our side have resulted in this application being submitted later than the NIRB requests, and much later than we'd planned, but am hoping that it will be possible to undertake the evaluation and render a decision in the time between now and the end of July. If you have time, I'd greatly appreciate being able to discuss this with you, to help me understand whether or not it might be possible to achieve this.

The second element concerns similar work, as part of the same science program, in 2022 and 2024, likely undertaken from a different vessel, possibly the US R/V Neil Armstrong. We've included information about R/V Armstrong in the package, as well, though at this time we cannot be 100% certain that this will be the vessel we use. I'm assuming that there will be a way for us to update information for 2022 and 2024, as we gain more clarity on those operations.

Thanks much for your help with this. I'm standing by to answer any questions that might arise (and will keep an eye on my junk mail folder, to avoid the problem that put us in this spot).

Best Regards,
Craig
