Nunavut Impact Review Board Announces Incoming Executive Director

CAMBRIDGE BAY, NU – December 04, 2023: Following the completion of an extensive executive search coordinated by Odgers Berndtson, the Nunavut Impact Review Board (NIRB) is very pleased to announce that Robbin Sinclair will be the NIRB's next Executive Director, effective January 29, 2024.

Robbin is a dedicated professional with experience in the public and private sectors in the areas of financial management, governance and accountability. She is a Chartered Professional Accountant (CPA) and a member in good standing with the Chartered Professional Accountants of B.C., Ontario, and NWT/Nunavut. In 2019 she was awarded the recognition of "Fellow" by all three Associations. In addition, she is a Certified Aboriginal Financial Manager (CAFM) under AFOA Canada and holds the internationally recognized Project Management Professional (PMP) designation.

Since 2002, Robbin has operated her own wholly-owned Federally incorporated consulting practice in Canada's eastern Arctic where she has served a variety of clients. In 2018 she moved the corporate office to B.C. where she currently resides. A seasoned senior-level executive, Robbin has proven ability to establish rapport and win cooperation across diverse organizational and multi-stakeholder groups and instill clarity and leadership to any environment. Robbin has been involved in community consultations and public hearings on matters that affect Nunavummiut and the Territory as a whole. Her fervent hope is to make a contribution and ensure a solid process so that all considerations are heard and respected when looking to responsibly develop Nunavut for the benefit and well-being of current and future generations.

Having previously lived in Nunavut full-time for almost 9 years and worked extensively with Nunavut organizations for more than 20 years, Robbin has a healthy respect for Inuit culture and a keen awareness of the importance of Inuit Qaujimajatuqangit for the NIRB and Nunavummiut. She is excited about the opportunity to work with the NIRB and looks forward to relocating to Cambridge Bay, reconnecting with colleagues and getting to know everyone better in the months and years to come.

Ryan Barry will continue to serve as the Board's Interim Executive Director until January 29, 2024 and will be working closely with the Board and staff to ensure a smooth transition for Robbin as the incoming Executive Director.

The NIRB is confident that Robbin will help lead the organization to continued success in the years ahead and looks forward to circulating her updated contact information with an invitation to connect following her commencement with the NIRB in January.

Sincerely,

Kaviq Kaluraq
Chairperson
Nunavut Impact Review Board
